This image is a handwriting practice sheet for the number 4. It consists of four rows, each containing ten dashed number 4s for tracing. The number 4 is formed by three strokes: a vertical line down, a horizontal line from left to right across the middle, and a diagonal line from the top-left to the bottom-right. Each row of ten numbers is separated from the next by a solid horizontal line. The entire sheet is designed to be used on lined paper, with the dashed numbers providing a guide for correct stroke order and placement.
